Model United Nations Simulations and English as a Lingua Franca Donna Tatsuki 2021-09-22 One of the most important 21st century skills is the ability to negotiate constructive resolutions in the face of conflicts of interest. Negotiation is a form of communication that requires more than just language ability. It requires being able to listen to, and communicate with, others within a milieu of diverse language abilities, academic, professional and cultural backgrounds in an increasingly global society. Added to this is the reality that the majority of English spoken globally is English as a Lingua Franca (ELF). Model United Nations (MUN) simulations are uniquely positioned to help students develop their language ability and their global competencies, as well as being ideal opportunities for participants to experience ELF in an intensely communicative context. A common goal in MUN simulations is to prepare students to solve complex problems that are associated with living in a technological, competitive, and globally connected world. This volume provides researchers, negotiation practitioners, and language teachers with insights and best practices in MUN event and delegate preparation. Application of these best practices will significantly enrich the pedagogic environments designed for MUN delegates, especially in ELF contexts.

Increasing the benefits and sustainability of irrigation through integration of fisheries Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations 2020-11-17 There is increasing recognition of the need to bring about changes across the full spectrum of agricultural practices to ensure that, in future, food production systems are more diverse, sustainable and resilient. In this context, the objectives of irrigation need to be much more ambitious, shifting away from simply maximizing crop yields to maximizing net benefits across a range of uses of irrigation water, including ecosystems and nature-based solutions. One important way to achieve this is by better integrating fisheries into the planning, design, construction, operation and management of irrigation systems. Irrigation – a major contributor to the Green Revolution – has significantly improved agricultural production worldwide, with consequent benefits for food security, livelihoods and poverty alleviation. Today, irrigated agriculture represents about 21 percent of cultivated land, but contributes approximately 40% of the total global crop production. Many governments continue to invest in irrigation as a cornerstone of food security and rural development. Investments in irrigation often represent a pragmatic form of adaptation to changing climatic conditions. This guide focuses on how to sustainably optimize and broaden the range of benefits from irrigation development - not only economic but also social and environmental benefits . It emphasizes the opportunities that fisheries could provide to increase food production and economic returns, enhance livelihoods and public health outcomes, and maintain key ecosystem services. The guide considers possible trade-offs between irrigation and fisheries, and provides recommendations on how these could be minimized.

The United Nations Guide to Model UN Department of Global Communications 2020-05-01 Model United Nations (MUN) simulations are popular exercises for those interested in learning more about the UN. It is estimated that hundreds of thousands of students worldwide participate every year in MUN at all educational levels in schools and universities. Many of today's leaders in law, government, business and the arts participated in MUN as students. Some MUNs however do not follow the actual rules and practices used at the UN. This guide is designed for students and teachers on how to organize and participate in MUNs that simulate the way the UN actually works.

Letter From the Secretary of War, Communicating in Answer to a Resolution of the Senate of the 6th of January, 1865 Edwin McMasters Stanton 2017-11-18 Excerpt from Letter From the Secretary of War, Communicating in Answer to a Resolution of the Senate of the 6th of January, 1865: Communications From Major General McDowell, Commanding the Department of the Pacific, in Relation to a Recent Attempt to Send Arms and Munitions of War Out of That Department to Mexico I h we, in compliance with general orders, seized a large quantity of arms and munitions of war, which were being taken out of the country, nominally to go to Colorado river, but in reality to go to Mexico. They have been ordered for safe keeping to Benicia arsenal. Part of them had been seized in Half Moon bay, after they had eluded the custom-house officers. Pedagogical and Technological Innovations in (and through) Content and Language Integrated Learning Alba Graziano 2021-05-14 Widely spread all over Europe and the world, Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) is the subject of great interest as the ultimate frontier of linguistic and pedagogical research. It impinges on the general cognitive processes involved in learning, on language acquisition and on the development of digital competencies. This volume attests to the spreading of the new "CLIL literacy" in the frame of pluriliteracies, and derives theoretical reflections from case studies and experiential reports, thus addressing both academic and school instructors. It combines research from international CLIL experts with the critical perspectives of academics not directly involved in its instruction.

Contested Waterscapes in the Mekong Region Francois Molle 2012-05-04 The catchment area of the Mekong River and its tributaries extends from China, through Burma/Myanmar, Thailand,

Laos, Cambodia and to Vietnam. The water resources of the Mekong region - from the Irrawaddy and Nu-Salween in the west, across the Chao Phraya to the Lancang-Mekong and Red River in the east- are increasingly contested. Governments, companies, and banks are driving new investments in roads, dams, diversions, irrigation schemes, navigation facilities, power plants and other emblems of conventional 'development'. Their plans and interventions should provide some benefits, but also pose multiple burdens and risks to millions of people dependent on wetlands, floodplains and aquatic resources, in particular, the wild capture fisheries of rivers and lakes. This book examines how large-scale projects are being proposed, justified, and built. How are such projects contested and how do specific governance regimes influence decision making? The book also highlights the emergence of new actors, rights and trade-off debates, and the social and environmental consequences of 'water resources development'. This book shows how diverse, and often antagonistic, ideologies and interests are contesting for legitimacy. It argues that the distribution of decision-making, political, and discursive power influences how the waterscapes of the region will ultimately look and how benefits, costs and risks will be distributed. These issues are crucial for the transformation of waterscapes and the prospects for democratizing water governance in the Mekong region. The book is part of the action-research of the M-POWER (Mekong Program on Water, Environment and Resilience) knowledge network. Published with IFAD, CGIAR Challenge Program on Water & Food, M-POWER, Project ECHL-EAU and HEINRICH BOLL STIFTUNG

Coaching Winning Model United Nations Teams Edward F. Mickolus 2013 By some counts, Model United Nations (MUN) has become the single most popular extracurricular academic activity among high school students. More than two million high school and college students have assumed the roles of ambassadors from real United Nations member countries, participated in spirited debate about the world's most pressing issues, and called, "Point of order, Mr. Chairman!" Now, in Coaching Winning Model United Nations Teams, Ed Mickolus and J. Thomas Brannan give MUN teachers and coaches the information they need to succeed. In this informative volume, the authors (MUN coaches themselves) provide detailed guidance for each step of the MUN path, from the first meeting in the teacher's classroom to the final days of an official MUN conference. Coaches will learn about the ins and outs of parliamentary procedure and the most effective ways to help their students draft position papers and resolutions. Most important, Mickolus and Brannan illustrate the many ways that teachers can inspire their students to take an active role in making the world a better place. By the time their students move on, MUN coaches will have instilled in them such important qualities as empathy, self-confidence, and grace under pressure. Coaching Winning Model United Nations Teams is a fun, useful guide for teachers and coaches who are working to help develop tomorrow's leaders today.

Integration of Resonant Force Sensors Into a Passive Microgripper for Robotic Based Three-dimensional Microassembly Issam Bait Bahadur 2006 This thesis addresses the analytical and simulation models of a novel integration of a double-ended tuning fork (DETF) resonant force sensor into a compliant, passive microgripper. The resonant sensor provides real-time force feedback for microassembly automation applications. The main contribution of this research is the design of a force sensor that reduces the coefficient of friction and fabrication process uncertainties. Furthermore, a passive temperature compensation procedure is proposed to minimize the force sensor temperature drift and, thus, the force measurement errors. The force sensor design permits a force sensitivity of 1500 Hz/ μN , dynamic range of 4.0×10^5 , and resolution of 0.03 μN with sensor bandwidth of 5000 Hz. The second main contribution of this thesis is the development of a new parasitic capacitance current cancellation method in order to provide inherent robustness against parasitic current which interface with measurements. Finally, the superior results obtained from Modelling prove the feasibility of the resonant force sensor in microgripping applications.
